How do you describe Michigan? Participants will use maps of Michigan (rivers, population, forests, agricultural land, natural resources, topography, land uses, and more) to teach how physical and human characteristics explain Michigan land use and economic decisions. Resources for participants include:

Paper and electronic forms of maps and lesson plans aligned with the Michigan GLCEs for 3rd and 4th grades

A new set of posters and maps with accompanying activities) adapted from the Michigan Environmental Education Curriculum (MEECS) to help teachers meet the 3rd and 4th grade GLCEs, including Michigan Water and Human World, Michigan Land Use and Land Cover, Michigan Energy Resources, and Michigan's Land, Air and Water.

This is an outstanding opportunity to work with experts in Michigan studies, learn from colleagues teaching the same content and receive great support materials.
